Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☐ Responsive to communication(s) filed on ____.
- 2a) ☐ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☒ This action is non-final.
- 3) ☐ Since this application is in condition for allowance except for formal matters, prosecution as to the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 1935 C.D. 11, 453 O.G. 213.

Disposition of Claims

DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's arguments, see remarks, filed 03/20/2006, with respect to the rejection(s) of claim(s) 1-3, 7 and 9 under 35 USC 102(b) have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration and consultation, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of Cook et al. (US 5,554,646) in view of Kawamura et al. (Hypertension 1996, 27, 408-413). This action is non-final.

Claims 1-3, 7 and 9 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-3, 7 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over

Applicant claims a method of treating hypertension in humans.

Determination of the scope and content of the prior art
(MPEP 2141.01)

As stated in the prior Office Action, Cook et al. disclose a method of reducing body fat comprising the administration of a safe and effective amount of conjugated linoleic acid (Abstract and claims 1-9). Cook et al. define conjugated linoleic acid as including mixtures and salts thereof (Column 4, lines 21-26). Cook et al. disclose 9,11-octadecadienoic acid and 10,12-octadecadienoic acid as conjugated linoleic acids obtained by their methods and therefore reading on instant claim 3 (Column 4, lines 37-41 and 60-67). Other geometric isomers, including cis-9, cis-11, can be obtained consequently reading on instant claim 2 (Column 4, lines 48-59 and column 5, lines 3-8)). Cook et al. disclose the addition of 0.1 to 10 grams of conjugated linoleic acid to the diet of humans as a food supplement thus reading on instant claim 9 (Column 2, example 3). Since the material was ingested, then the conjugated linoleic acid was administered orally and therefore reads on instant claim 7.

Kawamura et al. provide a nexus teaching between hypertension, weight loss and decreases in blood pressure. Kawamura et al. teach that changes in body weight exhibited significant correlations with blood pressure reduction in hypertensive overweight human patients (Abstract, pages 1 and 2; page 9, final paragraph).

Ascertainment of the difference between the prior art and the claims
(MPEP 2141.02)

Cooke et al. do not expressly teach a method of treating hypertension in humans.

Finding of prima facie obviousness

Rational and Motivation (MPEP 2142-2143)

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the claimed invention was made to treat a hypertensive human patient with the method of Cooke et al. and produce the instant invention.

One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to do this because Cooke et al. provide a method of reducing body fat and Kawamura et al. teach that reduction in weight in hypertensive patients results in a lowering of blood pressure. Thus, the method of Cooke et al. is beneficial to the instantly claimed patient population and would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art.

From the teachings of the references, it is apparent that one of ordinary skill in the art would have had a reasonable expectation of success in producing the claimed invention. Therefore, the invention as a whole was prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, as evidenced by the references, especially in the absence of evidence to the contrary.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

No claims are allowed.
